Microsoft must be punished for their crime and not be swept underneath carpet. Corporate and government department must learn that the law is for the people and not these large money laden groups. They are guilty and should be punished, but forced to play ball like everyone else. Their domination of the market is not helping the consumer, but causing more trouble then it is worth. Security holes, buggy software, and lack of revealing information to developers to allow them to be at the same level as MS's products with hidden APIs and other bits of information that would allow others to release better apps.

The OS market should be rip from their hands and sold off.

Thank you and don't let our rights be trampled over....
